President's Address

To the Class of 2017:

It is my honor and privilege to congratulate you once again on your achievements and graduation from WPI.

This class saw the initiation of the strategic plan, Elevate Impact, and your participation and insights helped me tremendously in shaping the plan. Whether you attended our various input sessions, emailed me your thoughts, spoke with me during Office Hours, or participated on an MQP team, your voice was heard! Thank you for your dedication to this great institution, and for your passion for its future.

You were also here for the historic decision to bid farewell to Alumni Gym, the 100-year old building that served the campus so well for so long, and to usher in the plans to build the Foisie Innovation Studio. You helped us with those plans, too, ensuring your legacy on this campus in a building that will celebrate creative thinking and teamwork for the betterment of the global community.

You saw us launch several new project centers across the globe, including locations in Israel, Ecuador, Panama, and Worcester, England. A nd speaking of teamwork, you shone on the playing fields this year, too. Our athletics programs had great success. We salute you for representing WPI so well with your talent, skill, dedication, and superior sportsmanship.

Your academic accomplishments were also significant, and these were recognized through your acceptance into graduate programs, your exciting job offers, and your service to our nation with the military. Your curiosity and drive to find new knowledge made us all better.

Now as you move forward, I urge you to stay connected to your alma mater. Participate in alumni activities. Come back to campus often. Help us spread the word about this special institution. And of course, keep us apprised of what you are up to! This is the beginning of the new phase of our relationship with you, and we look forward to celebrating your achievements and milestones for many years to come!

I am so deeply proud of all of you.

Sincerely,
Laurie Leshin
President

SGA's Address

Our WPI Story: Theory, Practice, and Impact

There is something about a brutal Worcester winter, where snow is measured in feet not inches - that makes the first warm days of spring so worth it. It is a cycle we have consistently experienced here for the past four years. Buckling down, becoming comfortable with the uncomfortable, and ultimately prevailing. Each term at WPI holds the same; not truly knowing what you are getting yourself into until somehow it's week three and a half, and you seem to be spending more time calculating how to get an A, than you have spent on any of the homework for the entire term. We've all been there. But each of those grueling seven week terms provided an endearing familiarity- one that can only be appreciated once our much needed term break arrives, and we've realized we've given WPI all we had.

We are forming these patterns without even knowing it, and like any beautiful work of art, each small part is made up of similar strokes, repeating each other, until the larger masterpiece is revealed. It is often difficult to imagine at the start, but we have been creating these masterpieces unknowingly throughout every moment of our lives.

Our journey at WPI, started at the beginning, with that first walk across Earle Bridge. No matter where we came from, each member of our class took a leap of faith to arrive at this small university in Worcester. We were unsure of what the future had in store for us. The spirit of WPI is captured in this- prevailing through uncertainty, approaching each encounter with an open heart and an open mind, knowing that everyone is here for a reason, and understanding that everyone has something to offer.

Each member of our class has their own story; where they've been, where they are going, and who they want to be. But whether it's a standing ovation for a fantastic performance in Alden, or a roaring crimson and grey crowd at a championship game, we've been there together. And these are the moments that make our experiences richer. Bonding and supporting one another in the excitement of our collective accomplishments.

Our original impression of this physically small university was shattered by the enormous presence WPI has through innovation and global reach. Our learning extends well beyond the walls of Higgins Labs, Atwater Kent, Olin Hall, even the library. WPI as a whole is our classroom. It is the place that incorporates learning in every facet- where we question curiously the rules of the universe, where we learn about ourselves, where we find our passions and pursue them. But WPI has given us the opportunity to extend this classroom to the entire world, challenging us to immerse ourselves in other cultures, learn about other ways of life, and use our finely honed skills to solve real-world issues that will affect others in a positive way. These local and global experiences have taught us the value of working with others and gaining a new perspective.

Some of our best role models are the professors, faculty and staff of WPI that take an interest in each and every one of us, and recognize our passions before we even recognize them in ourselves. Through countless conversations with faculty and mentors we gain confidence that make the extra hours on the assignments more tolerable. We knew that we weren't just building knowledge in a specific course; we were chipping away to find what makes us unique. Our greatest role models, however, have been our peers. With each empowering conversation, we build off of each other's successes and experiences, learning from each other's strengths- making us stronger as a unit. Each person adds to who we are - giving us layers and dimension. We are all deeply defined by one another; a treasured gift that's impact will linger far after the fear of stepping on the seal has faded.

Our moments of definition come in distinct ways for each person. Our struggles are just as defining as our successes. Whether it is a task from a professor that has pushed our limits and caused us to pull yet another all-nighter; or the group project that took all we had. We've been tested. We've been to the bottom and we've fought our way back up. While our challenges are all unique, each WPI student knows the feeling of success and wants nothing more than to help others succeed as well.

WPI teaches resilience, we have learned from our challenges, both academic and personal. The community of WPI picked us up when we were at our lowest and gave us the skills we needed to stand back up. At WPI we've helped each other get to the proud place of where we are and who we have become.

We've learned to adapt when things didn't go as expected, that the comfort zone is a nice place, but nothing noteworthy can be accomplished there. We are in a very unique place at WPI. Some may call it a bubble, but what a bubble it is. To be amongst the brightest minds, conquering the toughest subjects- not just in the field of engineering or science- but in society. WPI proves time and time again to be at the helm of progress. Our norm is to constantly challenge the status quo, to incite change within our community, and to instill in its students that it is our duty to always speak out and defend our beliefs.

WPI has proven that we are better when we embrace change even when it feels impossible, because that is the only way forward. We flourish as individuals and as a community when our actions are driven by what we care about. So many of us have already discovered our passions and acted on them- creating our own businesses, movements, organizations - inspiring others to apply their learnings into reality.

The two towers aren't just something that stand everlasting on campus; they are something we hold with us wherever we go. Theory and Practice have been ingrained into our very being, knowing that theory or practice on their own are not as effective as when they are together. Lehr un Kunst teaches us to never give up- to gain knowledge and to apply it, to break rules and sometimes make our own. This notion of the Two Towers marks every student who walks across Earle Bridge, and never leaves them. As we join the esteemed ranks of WPI alumni today, we have taken in all that WPI had to offer, and have emerged as accomplished, prepared, and inspired adults ready to face the world's most pressing challenges.

We arrived. We learned. We worked to prove ourselves. We emerged Stronger. And we will continue to flourish using Theory and Practice to make a positive impact on the world.

This pattern is not just our path through WPI- it is the pattern that we will follow for the rest of our lives- we will continue to support and empower others, we will continue to thrive in the face of adversity, and as WPI Graduates we will continue to rise together and impact the world that so eagerly awaits us.
